MAKE NO CHANGE IN SCHEDULE G.

Agricultural Schedule Remains Unaltered by Democratic Caucus

BRINGS LIVELY DEBATE

Efforts Were Made to Place Cattle and Sheep on Free List and to Cut Duty on Swine

COMMITTEE BILL SUSTAINED

WASHINGTON, APRIL 14.—Persistent efforts to put cattle and sheep on the free list, to cut the duty on swine, and to otherwise alter the ways and means committee tariff revision bill were defeated in the Democratic caucus today. The Democratic leadership fight for the bill as reported was piloted by Representative Francis Burton Harrison of New York in the absence of Representative Underwood, majority leader, who is ill. On the senate side of congress the tariff revisionists were inactive. The agricultural schedule was before the house caucus all afternoon and there were some lively speeches. Many of the new members of the house aired their views but each time there was a test the committee was overwhelmingly sustained. Representative Logan of Pennsylvania, a new member, precipitated the biggest fight of the day with an amendment to put cattle on the free list. Cattle and sheep are now dutiable at ten per cent and swine at $1.50 a head. Representative Raker of California, Russell of Missouri, and others urged against free cattle, declaring that it would destroy the cattle raising industry in their states. Representatives Kinkaid, of New Jersey and Curley of Massachusetts, contended free cattle would mean a broader field of supply for the independent packers as against the so-called beef trust.

Representative Curley declared that the United States might soon cease to be an exporter of food. He said the Argentine republic with a population of only 9,000,000 as against 92,000,000 in the United States exported more than five times as much beef and meat products as the United States and that the tariff protection in America could only benefit the trust.

Representative Garner of Texas, a member of the ways and means committee, said cattle last year raised a tariff revenue of $1,200,000, that the rate had been so adjusted in this bill that it would raise $500,000 the first year. If the cattle were transferred to the free list he added, the rest of the tariff would have to be adjusted to meet the loss of revenue.

Representative Kinkaid of New Jersey forced a roll call, the first since the bill had been before the caucus and the free cattle amendment was rejected, 73 to 122.

Representative Burke of Wisconsin unsuccessfully sought to reduce the duty on swine from $1.50 to 75 cents a head, and a motion by Representative Kinkaid to put sheep on the free list was voted down 62 to 98.

An attempt to raise the proposed rates on barley, made by the Democrats from Wisconsin and Minnesota was also unsuccessful. Representative Burke of Wisconsin offered an amendment restoring the rates of the Payne law, under which barley pays a duty of thirty cents a bushel. The Underwood bill would cut that in two.

Representative Burke declared the farmers of the northwest needed the thirty per cent duty to enable them to compete with the growers of Canadian barley just across the boundary line.

Representative Raker of California sought to reduce the proposed duty of ten cents per bushel on oatmeal.

The last fight of the day came on rice. Representative Lasroe of Louisiana offered an amendment to increase the proposed duty of one cent a pound to a cent and a half a pound.

Underwood Confined to Bed.
Representative Underwood, chairman of the ways and means committee of the house and Democratic floor leader, was confined to his bed to day as the result of an attack of acute indigestion. His condition was only slightly improved tonight, but he announced over the protest of his physician that he would be at the capital as usual tomorrow.

Mr. Underwood had not been well for several days due, it is believed to over taxing his strength in his work on the tariff measure.

Yesterday he put in a strenuous day in the Democratic caucus, working until after 6 o'clock. He went to bed thoroughly exhausted and early this morning he suffered an attack of acute indigestion.

He was very ill for a time but rallied before the family could get a physician. Later his physician ordered him not to leave his bed to day and put him on liquid diet. Mr. Underwood slept most of the day and felt much refreshed tonight. No fear is felt for his prompt recovery but it is said that he is in very much need of rest.

TELLS OF PAYING FOR POLICE PROTECTION

KEEPER OF DISORDERLY HOUSE TESTIFIES BEFORE VICE COMMISSION

Gave Police Detective $100 and Was Told It Was For "Democratic Official in City Hall"—Chorus Girls on Stand.

CHICAGO, APRIL 14.—Miss Sarah Mueller, the keeper of a disorderly house, who said she made $300,000 in the last nine years, testified before the Illinois vice-commission today that because she refused to pay "protection money" to the police she was put out of business. Her's was only one of many stories brought out before the commission in its efforts to learn the cause of the prevalence of vice. Among the witnesses were half a dozen chorus girls of a well known theatrical company.

When a chorus girl 18 years old, who stopped at the hotel, told of sending to her parents in New York $10 a week out of her $22 salary Chairman Barrett O'Hara addressing her said:

"You have told a straight forward story here and I believe you are a good girl, but I want to tell you I think it is a shame that you should be thrown into such conditions as exist at that hotel. I think it is a pity that you and others like you are not better protected by officials of your company."

Mrs. Mueller's story of attempted extortion by the police came after she admitted having kept a "disorderly house" for ten years. "Last June after the police detectives visited my place another plainclothesman came," she said. "He told me I would have to close up until I gave him $200 protection money. He said my neighbors had done it. I gave him $100. Later he asked me for more, but I refused to give it. The next week my house was closed up. A neighbor told me she had given $400 to the police in five weeks and she was allowed to continue."

"When this man took the $100 from you whom did he say it was for?" Mrs. Mueller was asked.

He told me it was for a Democratic official in the city hall."

Her testimony was the result of a promise made to the commission by Elmer Williams, that he would furnish the names of people who had been paying money for protection. The commission plans to go further into the subject.

Frank Olson, proprietor of a dance hall, testified he once paid $25 to a police lieutenant since dismissed from the service. He said he paid the money to induce the police not to keep patrons away from his hall.

TODAY MARKS ANNIVERSARY OF SINKING OF S. S. TITANIC

Is Last Day on Which Claims Against the Steamship Company Owners Can Be Filed.

New York, April 14.—Tomorrow the first anniversary of the sinking of the steamship Titanic has been set as the last day on which claims against the Oceanic Steamship company owners of the ill-fated ship can be filed in the United States district court for loss of life and property. Damages in excess of $12,000,000 already have been requested. The last day for filing claims was originally set for February 11th, but the time was extended. Up to that time a total of $8,000,000 in alleged damages had been asked of the company. Ninety-nine claims aggregating $2,216,000 have been filed since that date and more may be added tomorrow.

NEW YORK'S OLDEST BANKER.

James Seligman Has Entered Upon His Ninetieth Year.

New York, April 14.—James Seligman, New York's oldest banker entered upon his ninetieth year today. The anniversary was made the occasion for a family gathering which was attended by a number of the children and grandchildren and one great-grandchild of the aged banker.

James Seligman is the eldest survivor of the eight brothers who achieved world-wide prominence as financiers under the firm name of J. and W. Seligman and company. The eight brothers were natives of Germany. All the boys received a good school education, and Joseph, the oldest, immigrated to the United States while still young and settled in Mauch Chunk, Pa.

At the age of 15 James Seligman joined a party of peasants to his native place and came over to New York in the steerage. He was accompanied by his brother William and together the two sought out James' elder brother at Mauch Chunk. James found employment as a carpenter's assistant, but after a year at the work he invested his savings in a little stock of jewelry and came a peddler. His example was followed the next year by William and Joseph and also by another brother, Jesse, who had just arrived in the country. The brothers pooled their profits and opened a clothing store in Greensboro, Ala., where they remained several years.

When the civil war threatened, the brothers returned to New York and started a dry goods firm. In 1862 the dry goods firm was converted into the present banking house of J. and W. Seligman and Co. and through the activities and talents of the eight brothers, the banking house subsequently reached out into half a dozen of the principal cities of the world.

DEFENSE STRENGTHENS PFANSCHMIDT'S STORY

EVIDENCE IS MOST IMPORTANT TO DEFENSE THAT HAS BEEN PRESENTED

Several Witnesses Testify as to Ray's Grief at Parent's Death and Experts Say Blood on Axe Must Have Come on Axe Since the Fire.

QUINCY, ILL., APRIL 14.—The defense at the trial for Ray Pfanschmidt closed its third day to day in presenting its case to the jury and still has several witnesses before it will have finished its case for the evidence to day was the most important which the defense has yet introduced and has given strength to the story which Ray Pfanschmidt himself has told of his total ignorance of the cause on the crime on his father's farm.

In the first place the defense introduced at least half a dozen witnesses, members of the large Pfanschmidt family who testified that Ray showed great grief at the time of the death of his parents and sister and at the funeral. His aunt testified that after the funeral the youth broke down completely, though ordinarily he was a boy who did not show any unusual emotion.

In the second place the defense proved by expert witnesses that the blood on the axe in the ruins must have come on the axe in some manner since the fire.

In the third place, according to attorneys for the youth every khaki suit owned by Ray Pfanschmidt has been accounted for and the suit found in the vault did not belong to Ray. The evident intention of the defense is to maintain that some person attempted to fasten the guilt on Ray Pfanschmidt and "planted" the evidence of the axe and of the bloody khaki suit in the vault.

KING ALFONSO HAS NARROW ESCAPE FROM ASSASSIN

Monarch Makes Horse Rear When Assassin Seizes Bridle and Animal Receives Bullet.

Madrid, April 14.—King Alfonso narrowly escaped being the victim of an anarchist attempt against his life. Three shots were fired at the king Sunday afternoon in the streets of the capital by a native of Barcelona, Rafael Sanchez Alegro, who was immediately overpowered.

This was the fifth attempt made against the king's life since his reign began.

King's Courage Saves His Life.
Accompanied by his staff, King Alfonso was riding along the Calle de Alcala, returning from the ceremony of swearing in recruits, when a man ran from the sidewalk opposite the Bank of Spain and seized the bridle of the king's horse with one hand, presenting a revolver point blank with the other.

The king, realizing the situation, with lightning-like rapidity, dug his spurs into his horse, which reared violently. His quickness saved his life. The bullet instead of burying itself in the king's breast, struck the horse on the neck, but so close was it that the king's left hand glove was blackened by the powder discharge. At the sound of the first shot the king's staff forced their horses on the sidewalk and made a ring around the assassin, who fought fiercely in the grip of four policemen before he was overpowered and handcuffed.

King Alfonso, as soon as he saw the man had been secured, raised himself in the stirrups, turned to the crowd, gave a military salute, and shouted: "Long live Spain."

Wilson Sends Message.

Washington, April 14.—President Wilson cabled King Alfonso of Spain today as follows:

"I am shocked to learn of the attempt on your majesty's life and rejoice that you entirely escaped the assassin's bullets."

WILSON ADDRESSES D. A. R. CONGRESS

Welcome Speech is President's First Public Address Since Inauguration

AMBASSADOR SPEAKS

Frenchmen Speaks of the Part France Played in the Revolutionary War

BEGINS 22ND ANNUAL SESSION

WASHINGTON, APRIL 14.—Delegates to the Continental Congress of the Daughters of the American Revolution which began its twenty-second annual session here today were welcomed to Washington by President Wilson in his first public address since his inauguration. Addresses of welcome also were made by Secretary of State Bryan and the French ambassador, Mr. Jusserand, both the president and Secretary Bryan told the daughters that it was their duty to apply the principles of their ancestors to modern problems.

Stormy Business Session.
The afternoon session given over to addresses of welcome followed a stormy business meeting which resulted in a partial victory for the forces of Mrs. William Cummings Story of New York, one of the candidates in the strenuous contest for president-general of the society.

Mrs. Story's partisans secured authorization for the appointment of a collateral committee of representatives of each of the candidates for president-general to pass upon the seating of contested delegations.

Among the notable women who occupied the boxes at the afternoon meeting were Mrs. Woodrow Wilson and Mrs. Thomas R. Marshall. Mrs. William J. Bryan, Mrs. A. S. Burleson, Mrs. Franklin Lane, Mme. Chinda, wife of Japanese ambassador, Mrs. John Hayes Hammond.

Secretary Bryan in his address told the daughters that they must throw their influence on the side of the people in their struggle for liberty.

"Then and then only," he declared, "will you be true daughters of the American revolution."

Ambassador Jusserand said that the daughters were keepers of tradition and as such had an important part in the affairs of the nation. He spoke of the part France played in the revolutionary war.

Mrs. Matthew T. Scott, the retiring president-general, in her farewell address, reviewed the progress made by the society and declared that there was still a great work to be accomplished.

Wilson's Address.
President Wilson said he did not know that it was necessary to welcome the members of the daughters of the revolution to Washington which in effect already was their own city. He commended the society for the splendid work it was doing in commemorating the attainment of American liberty.

"I regard organizations like this," he said, "as part of the nation's life of memory. They remind us of the things that have gone by and of the standards to which we must conform if we would be thorough and loyal Americans."

"I would not undertake at any rate, in a single improvised address, to set up the canons of Americanism. Americanism is now of so many varieties among the ladies that I am not so sure of my standards on that side of the house; and, therefore I tread very gingerly when I try to set up standards there. But this I know; that so far as our recollections are concerned, so far as those things are concerned which we hold sacred in the past, so far as those things go that we intend to live up to and be worthy of, there is only one canon of Americanism. And the real, constant difficulty of American politics is to bring it back so that it will square with the standard set up at the first when the revolution was fought out and independent nation was established in America."

"We established an independent nation in order that men might enjoy a new kind of happiness and a new kind of dignity; that kind which a man has when he respects every other man and woman's individuality as he respects his own; where he is not willing to draw distinctions between classes; where he is not willing to shut the door of privilege in the face of any one."

"The dignity of your organization is measured by the dignity of traditions which you are organized to maintain. Therefore the American revolution is worth remembering because it is one of the few struggles in the history of the world which was entirely devoted to the establishment of liberty."

Several thousand delegates and visitors attended a farewell reception given at Continental hall tonight by Mrs. Matthew T. Scott, the retiring president-general.

Santo Domingo, April 14.—Jose Borda Valdez took the oath as president of the republic today and appointed a full cabinet.

CRAZED MAN KILLS CHILDREN AND SELF

MURDERS HIS FOUR SMALL CHILDREN AND COMMITS SUICIDE

Continued Ill Health is Believed to Have Made the Father Temporarily Insane and Caused Him to Commit Awful Crime.

FITCHBURG, MASS., APRIL 14.—Ernest Moschner, aged 35, murdered his four children and then killed himself by shooting in his home on Ralston street today. Continued ill-health made the man temporarily insane the police believe.

Moschner's wife on returning from work, discovered the bodies of her children and husband with bullet holes in their heads. The murdered children were: Elsie, aged 15; Myrtle, aged 11; Norman, aged 8 and Ernest, aged 6. According to the police the children were playing in the yard when the father called them upstairs to his bedroom, there from the marks of the muddy feet the officers, believe, he lured the children up in front of a bed.

While the children, half frightened were gazing at him, Moschner drew a 32-calibre revolver and fired at his elder daughter, Elsie. The bullet entered the head near the left ear, causing instant death. The other children evidently rushed from the room. Ernest, the youngest child was found crumpled lifeless on the floor of a closet in the front room of the same floor. The shot had entered the left side of the head just below the temple. Myrtle and Norman fled down stairs. There Myrtle sought vain refuge in a closet, but the maddened father's unerring aim brought her down just as she stumbled, over the threshold.

Norman Makes Brave Fight.
From appearances, only one of the children had any chance for self-defense. Norman, the older boy was found in the coal bin, his torn clothes and a blood spattered club beside him giving mute evidence of a brave but futile struggle.

Moschner then retraced his steps first covering up Norman's body with rags and boards. Halting at the closet on the first floor he covered Myrtle's body. Then entering his bedroom he drew a sheet over Elsie's form as it lay on the bed and standing beside her, sent a bullet into his brain, causing instant death.

Two hours later Mrs. Moschner came home. Missing the sounds of the children's voices, and noticing the overturned furniture, she rushed upstairs to her husband's room and found his body and Elsie's. She fell in a dead faint and when she recovered ran shrieking out of the house to call her neighbors.

Moschner, the police learned, bought his revolver this morning. Up to a short time ago he had a tuberculosis patient at the state hospital. He tried to earn a living for the family but he grew too weak for work, and his wife took up the work. Brooding over his poor health, the police think, caused his mind to become unbalanced.

MORGAN'S BODY REACHES LAST RESTING PLACE

BODY OF FAMOUS FINANCIER BURIED AT CEDAR HILL CEMETERY

Grave is Heaped in Huge Pyramid With Flowers, Ferns and Cedar Boughs—Last Honors Are Paid by Relatives and Friends.

HARTFORD, CONN., APRIL 14.—The body of J. P. Morgan is at rest. It was buried to day on the crest of Cedar Hill cemetery the sixth of the house of Morgan to find resting place. His grave is to the west of the great monument of red granite that marks the family plot. To the east lies his father, Junius Spencer Morgan, his mother and a brother who died in boyhood. To the north are the graves of his grand parents, Joseph and Sarah. Like the others, the grave of the new comer will be marked by a small brown headstone, inscribed:

"John Pierpont Morgan, 1836-1913."

In lieu of a headstone there towers tonight a monument of flowers, masses of roses, lilies, orchids, ferns and cedar boughs, heaped in huge pyramid over the grave. They are the last tributes of friends and relatives who came here with the body to day in a special train from New York after the funeral services in St. George's church.

Hartford, the financier's birthplace, had its flags at halfmast under a lowering sky when the seven car funeral train, manned with a crew that had operated Mr. Morgan's special trains during his life, arrived shortly after two o'clock bearing 75 mourners.

An immense crowd was at the station and people packed the sidewalks three deep as the funeral party drove through the streets of the city, three and a half miles to the cemetery. The route led by the little red brick house in which the financier was born which was draped to day in black and by the great marble memorial building, recently erected by Morgan in honor of his father, its door handing with a mourning wreath. There were more than fifty carriages in the procession including those of the mayor of Hartford, the Rev. Charles A. Godwin, a cousin of Mr. Morgan and other distinguished citizens of the city. Two large automobile trucks carried flowers.

Over the seven feet of earth allotted to the financier as his last resting place, there had been erected a large white tent, church like in appearance with a chance at one end. In the center of this chancel was the grave, its sides lined with red roses. Beyond it, completely covering the wall of tent in brilliant colors were heaped the floral tributes—those of the family, the German Emperor Williams' wreath brought from Rome and hundreds of intimate friends.

The Burial Service.
When the funeral party arrived, Mrs. J. P. Morgan, the widow, leaning on the arm of her son, was the first to enter. Seats had been provided, but all the mourners remained standing. Bishop Chauncey L. Brewster of Connecticut, intoned the opening anthem of the Episcopal memorial service as the coffin was brought in followed by the honorary pall-bearers. A curtain was down across the entrance to the tent to screen the ceremonies from the gaze of the curious.

"We therefore commit his body to the ground, earth to earth, ashes to ashes, dust to dust, looking for the general resurrection at the last day and the life of the world to come."

These were the words with which the financier's body was lowered into its grave at 3:40 o'clock. The Lord's prayer was chanted by the mourners, and with a benediction the ceremonies, lasting scarcely ten minutes, were over.

J. P. Morgan escorted his mother to her carriage. Then while the other mourners were driving away, he went back with his son Junius, and stood with bowed head and tear filled eyes until they threw the last spadeful of earth on the grave of his father. On the trip from New York, the coffin of the financier rested on a special funeral car. Flags at all the stations passed were at half mast and crowds were gathered on each platform. A baggage car was completely filled with flowers.

Immediately after the funeral ceremony, the mourning party returned by special train.

Large Inheritance Tax.

Albany, N. Y., April 14.—New York state will receive between $3,000,000 and $4,000,000 in inheritance tax from the estate of the late J. P. Morgan, according to preliminary estimates made by the attaches of the state comptroller's office to day.

The estimate is based on a report that the total estate will be about $100,000,000. The tax is expected to be one of the largest ever paid.

BELIEVE POPE HAS PASSED DANGER POINT

Physician's Report Indicates That Danger for the Present is Passed

RALLIES WONDERFULLY

Prof. Marchiafava States That Inflammation of Chest Has Been Checked and is Decreasing

ABLE TO TAKE NOURISHMENT

ROME, APRIL 14.—The pope has rallied in a wonderful manner from the serious attack from which he suffered yesterday. He appeared to be on the point of death last night. The physicians' report tonight indicate that the danger point for the present at least has been passed. Dr. Amiel paid a visit to the sick room, shortly before midnight.

Although the pope's temperature had increased slightly, he found the general condition satisfactory. He administered a heart stimulant and shortly the pope went to sleep. Throughout the day his temperature was normal, the pulse remained at about 85 and the respiration 26. This indicated a considerable amelioration in the bronchial symptoms which was evidenced by easier breathing and freedom for long periods from cough. In addition, the pope was able to take some nourishment, and he showed much interest in what was happening about him. When Prof. Marchiafava allowed the pontiff's nephew to enter the room there was an affecting scene. The frail and aged pontiff and the young and robust priest embraced tenderly, the latter being unable to restrain his emotion at finding the pope so changed physically.

Inflammation Checked.
Prof. Marchiafava tonight repeated his assurances that if prudence were exercised, the pope would recover. He declared that his examination of the chest showed that the inflammation which yesterday was marked on the left side, has been checked, and was actually diminishing while the bronchial sounds were less noticeable. After his afternoon's sleep it was observed that the pontiff looked very bright and happy. Although he was advised not to talk, he insisted on explaining how he had just awakened from a most wonderful dream.

He seemed, he said, to have returned to his beloved Venice, that he was in his patriarchal gondola on the Grand canal. Everything was blazing with sunlight when suddenly above St. Mark's the sky opened and he saw a vision of his dead sister, Rosa, who, descending towards him, took his hand, saying:

"The moment has not yet come for you to join me. Your work is not yet finished."

The sisters of the pope and his niece are happy in having the pope's nephew with them, as he is most hopeful for the recovery of the pontiff and keeps up their spirits.

Cardinal Kopp, Archbishop of Breslau is expected soon to arrive. He has the highest veneration for the pope, and being deeply affected by the reports of the pontiff's serious condition, desires, even if he cannot see him, to be near him in Rome.

Home From Pilgrimage.

Treviso, Italy, April 14.—Bishop Longhin arrived home today with the veneration pilgrims. He was met by a great crowd desirous of receiving direct news of the pope. The bishop delivered an address saying that the latest reports were most comforting and such as to exclude cause for alarm.

"Everything gives rise to the hope," he said, "that the holy pontiff will overcome the grave crisis."

Offer Prayers for Recovery.
Venice, April 14.—Pope Pius is venerable here and the condition of his health is followed with the closest anxiety. Special prayers are being offered at St. Marks and other churches for his recovery.

BELLES LETTRES SOCIETY GIVES "A SCRAP OF PAPER"

Large Audience Listens to Dramatic Representation of Old Days in France By College Talent.

"A Scrap of Paper," by J. Palgrave Simpson was given at Music hall at 8 o'clock Monday evening as the annual play of the Belles Lettres literary society of the Illinois Woman's college. The way in which the young ladies of the cast handled the heavy dramatic work of this high standard serious comedy speaks well for the literary talent of Belles Lettres. Particularly attractive was the stage setting, supervised by Miss Sieveradene Harmel. The elegant costumes of old Paris together with the furniture of antique design depicted with marvelous effectiveness the life of the time of Napoleon III. The conservatory scene in Act III, was especially picturesque with its green background and numerous candles.

The character of "Prosper Couramont" by Miss Mona Summers was taken in a splendid manner, while Miss Anna Heist portrayed the part of "Baron de la Glaciere" in a talented way; as Miss Suzanne Ruseville, Miss Jeanette Powell was quite at home. Complimentary mention could well be made of each one taking part; the whole cast was evenly balanced, and the audience showed their keen appreciation of the merits of the play.

The following was the cast of characters:

Prosper Couramont—Mona Summers.
Baron de la Glaciere—Anna Heist.
Brisemouche, lauded proprietor and naturalist—Nina Slaten.
Anatole (His Ward)—Essie Summers.
Baptiste (Servant)—Irene McCullough.
Francis (Servant of Prosper)—Katherine Aldrich.
Louise de la Glaciere—Helen Harrison.

A MORGAN CENTENARY.

Funeral Day of Great Financier Marks Centenary of His Father.

New York, April 14.—By an odd coincidence the day appointed for the funeral of J. Pierpont Morgan happens to be the centennial anniversary of the birth of his father, Junius Spencer Morgan, father of the late financier, was 101 one hundred years ago today in West Springfield, Mass. He was the real founder of the great financial house of Morgan. When he was a young man his father set him up in business in Hartford at an expense of $50,000. The mercantile venture was such a success that in a few years he was able to dispose of his interest for $300,000. With that sum he removed to Boston and embarked in a fresh enterprise of a similar character. When he was ready to make another turn he sold out his interest for $600,000 and went to London, becoming a partner of George Peabody, the famous American banker and philanthropist.

In 1870 Junius S. Morgan launched into the great new kind of enterprise which has ever since distinguished the Morgan firm. In October of that year the city of London was stirred by the news that J. S. Morgan and company had taken a French loan of 250,000,000 francs ($50,000,000). It was the first syndicate operation in the world of finance, and one of the largest and boldest ever known. Within the two preceding months the Germans had crushed the French army at Sedan, banished Napoleon III. and taken the emperor prisoner. The French were clearly doomed to defeat. The only authority for the loan was a provisional government at Tours. Taking 250,000,000 francs, worth of bonds under such circumstances involved great risks.

In three months the war was over, in a year the securities had advanced fifteen points above what they cost Morgan. And the syndicate was believed to have cleared $5,000,000 by the transaction. The former Boston dry goods merchant took his place in the world, second only to the Rothschilds in the greatest financial operations of that time—the financing of great government loans—and held it throughout the 70's. Junius S. Morgan died at Monaco, April 8, 1890, leaving his son, J. Pierpont Morgan, a fortune in excess of $10,000,000.

WILLIS EVANS ADDRESSED

BUSINESS MEN'S LUNCHEON

Peorian Pointed Out Absolute Need of Co-Operation As Basis of City Progress.

Another Chamber of Commerce luncheon was enjoyed Monday when a large company of business and professional men gathered in the dining room of the Pacific Hotel.

The Chamber of Commerce president, Rev. Father Crowe offered a prayer. The principal address was by Willis Evans, secretary of the Chamber of Commerce of Peoria and a very forceful one it was.

C. A. Barnes, and Mr. Andrews also spoke briefly. Mr. Evans' theme was Co-operation and he offered some ideas well worth pondering and acting upon.

He said the keynote of progress in the city of Peoria is "Co-operation in every department. At this time ideal conditions exist, whereas a year ago there was a disagreement between the municipal department heads and the citizens over a proposed water works ordinance, and the feeling was at times acute. To day there exists an entirely different condition, the mayor, the corporation counsel, the aldermen, the representatives of the business men's organization and the waterworks officials meet together in harmony in a positive atmosphere of arbitration and compromise in which the benefit involved is to the interest of the municipality, the corporation and the people at large.

"Co-operation or getting together was what brought about the improved city.

"I cannot conceive of any city making real, substantial progress unless there is the closest co-operation and unity of action on the part of the city officials and the people," said the speaker. Peoria interested in the welfare of every city in the state, jealous of none and anxious for the prosperity of all, is hopeful that the municipality and the citizens in harmony that all interests are pushing steadily and firmly on the great wheel for civic, material and rural progress. The speaker told of how the city authorities desired to improve the water front and asked the co-operation of the citizens. The result was an acquiescence, and a bond issue of $50,000 was made and to day there is one of the finest water fronts to be found along the Illinois or Mississippi rivers. The citizens wanted a river front stadium for river events and sports and the suggestion brought out a special appropriation of $3,000, which with a similar amount contributed at the hands of the association of Commerce produced the permanent lake front amphitheater. When a sanitarium was desired by the Medical and allied interests, the city proper and the business men co-operated and the sanitarium was a realization.

Judge C. A. Barnes was called for remarks and emphasized the need of co-operation in Jacksonville. He thought that this very spirit of co-operation is what is needed here now in connection with the light and bond issue suggesting that as so many citizens who had looked into the matter were in favor of it and as the city officials are practically unanimously in favor of it that it behooved citizens generally to get behind the proposition and see it through.

President Andrews added a few words in favor of the light bond issue expressing the hope that the people will decide in favor of the proposition.

The luncheon and the program were greatly enjoyed by the entire company.

"LET THERE BE LIGHT."

And now the battle is all over but the balloting. The question is all up to you, Mr. Voter, and yours is the right and privilege and duty to declare "Let there be Light," and Jacksonville or to decide that your home city remain in semi-darkness. Whatever you do, vote and let the result of today's election be a full and fair expression of the people's opinions. The polls open at seven and close at five.

At Northminster church Sunday night Rev. Walter E. Spoonst talked about the Light proposition. The pastor did not by any means devote his whole sermon to the present issue in Jacksonville but handled the question in a broad sense as well as with reference to the election issue today. He talked about "The Light of the World" and of the struggle which men of all ages have made in seeking light for mind and soul. One thought he advanced applicable to the home situation was that just as a city is well lighted just so is it a well policed city. It is the dark spots of the average city where the evil is done. The "bad lands" of the average city are in the darkest part for men love darkness rather than light because their deeds are evil. Pastor Spoonst hopes to see the light proposition carry in Jacksonville today.

When Mr. Willis Evans, secretary of the Peoria Chamber of Commerce, said down at the chamber of commerce luncheon yesterday that the organization he represents lays great stress on the co-operation of the boys in Peoria from eighth grade up he gave the stamp of approval to the interest that the Jacksonville Boosters are taking in the light bond issue. Up in Peoria they have organized hundreds of eighth grade and high school pupils into the "Sons of Peoria." In the distillery city they seem to have recognized fully that the boys of today are the citizens of tomorrow. One good thing the campaign just closing in Jacksonville has done has been to awaken the interest of boys and young men in a question of vital moment to the city. They are the better for this interest and older citizens are better because the truth has been pressed upon them anew that the real strength and hope of a city is in its youth. The young men of Jacksonville seem to be in favor of the light plant proposition.

sition and they will today lead the way for some older heads to "more light."

The Courier has advanced the argument that the rebuilding of the light plant will make it necessary to divert money now going to other channels of city betterment into maintaining and operating the plant. There is a suggestion that the light plant operation under new conditions will inevitably mean uncleaned streets and filthy street conditions generally. The facts are according to Commissioner Brennans careful figures that the cost of operation for the rebuilt plant will be less than is now the case. But aside from this fact it is also true that the money expended on the streets of Jacksonville comes almost wholly from the vehicle and poll tax funds and this money under the law absolutely cannot be spent for any other purpose than street improvement. During the year 1912 the money spent for street cleaning and repair work was $4,967.09 and of this sum only $737.84 came from the general fund. The remainder of the money came from vehicle license, $2,056.77; poll tax $2,172.48.

Judge Barnes in his brief remarks at the Chamber of Commerce luncheon talked about the new Jacksonville spirit. The judge voiced the sentiment that the way to help Jacksonville is to get together and proposition like the one presented today. He recalled the fact that almost always when a proposition was presented for public improvement that from some source or other new problems were put forward for the sole purpose of clouding the issue and shifting the discussion from the main point. These outside issues are important usually but should be settled on their merits and not injected into some campaign where they have no real place. The city needs lights, the plans prepared give evidence that more and better light will be secured with an honest expenditure of a sum not at all unreasonable for such an improvement; the majority of citizens seem to favor it; practically all of the city officials have given it as their opinion that the plans put forward are the best for the city—and that enough for Judge Barnes. He wants to see all Jacksonville illuminated and citizens working in unison for public betterments.

TROOPS AT MEREDOSIA

WILL RETURN HOME TODAY

Company F of Quincy Left Yesterday and Company B of Jacksonville Will Return This Morning.

Conditions along the Illinois river have become so favorable in the vicinity of Meredosia, that the troops who have been stationed there for the past fortnight will be sent home. Colonel Wood of the fifth regiment, who has charge of the national guards ordered company M of Champaign home last Friday. Monday company F of Quincy broke camp and this morning company B of Jacksonville will return on the 8:28 Wabash train.

The river is slowly falling and the levees have been so strengthened by the sand bags and in other ways that the danger mark is passed. The greatest anxiety perhaps, is that of the country was the McGhee levee, which some of the old timers prophesized would go out in spite of the efforts of the big gang of men the drainage commission had at work and the valuable assistance of the Illinois guards. As it is, a country comprising 25,000 acres of land has been saved, and over a hundred families are feeling relief from the long strain lest the levee should break.

Cost of Saving District.
While it is difficult to arrive at the cost of sending the soldiers to assist in the work, an estimation has been made for the entire time of $3,500. There were 140 militiamen in service and their pay together with that of the officers, provisions, equipments, and other expense has been quite an item. With an estimation that there are 100 families in the McGhee district, their lands and stock has been saved at a cost of approximately $35 per family. And then too, it has to be figured that if the levee had broken, the soldiers would have to remain considerable longer. The commissioners also had a big expense attached here. These men are still at work and every weak place in that region will be strengthened until the water goes down considerable.

Colonel Wood received a most complimentary letter from the commissioners of the McGhee district, for the splendid work the soldiers had done and for the discipline which had been observed and the spirit of helpfulness manifested.

L. H. Pratt and Fred Sharpe were among the visitors to Meredosia Sunday, and while there were guests of Colonel Wood and Captain Owen. In the afternoon the men took boat to Naples, where they met Sergeant Fisher, who was in command there. They also visited the pumping house and went to the Upper Way of the river and all points of interest were visited as time would permit for. Mr. Pratt stated last night that the signs about Naples were almost indescribable. People who were cooped up in the second stories of their houses were dipping up the filthy water of the river and using it for drinking purposes. Many of the smaller out-buildings were carried away by the stream and the fifth in the river was sure to make those who drank the water ill and if the people did not move out, that a number of deaths would result. Mr. Pratt stated that the Wabash track was still under water and held intact by the use of large quantities of sand bags.

CITY COUNCIL HELD REGULAR WEEKLY SESSION

Sidewalk and Paving Matters Will Have Speedy Attention—Utility Questions Held Up Pending Legislature's Action.

The city council held a regular session Monday morning at the usual hour when Mayor Davis called the council to order, the roll call by Mr. Pratt showed that all members were present.

The minutes of the last meeting were read and approved. Commissioner Knollenberg reported that money for the March pay roll for city employees was available and that the warrants would be ready at once. Commissioner Engel mentioned the fact that more hose is needed in the fire department and that he would make the necessary arrangement for securing the quantity needed.

A communication was read from John D. Cain, secretary of the U. C. T., asking the commissioners to co-operate with that body in protesting to the railroads against alleged unsanitary condition existing at several of the local railroad stations. This communication was referred to the department of public health and safety. The report of U. G. Woodman for Nichols park board commissioners was received and placed on file. This report has already been published in the city press.

Miss Emma Weller, city matron, reported visiting one woman who was in jail on a charge of vagrancy. The cases of seven girls had been reported to Miss Weller during the month and she stated that she had made application of delinquency for one girl in the juvenile court.

The matter of paving and sidewalks was brought up and also the question of the utility franchises with the suggestion that the city attorney might get busy on these matters. Mayor Davis suggested that so far as the utility franchises are concerned that there would probably be no use in taking action for a short time at least pending the fate of the utilities commission bill in Illinois legislature. If this bill is passed and it has the backing of Governor Dunne utility matter to cities under 25,000 in population will be settled by the commission and this of course would apply to Jacksonville. In cities over 25,000 it would be optional referring matters to the commission.

The change made in the bill has removed opposition to it from the cities like Springfield and in the minds of many people vitiate whatever of merit the bill may have had, making it applicable to the smaller cities only.

E. F. Johnston was present and suggested to the council that an occupational tax would be welcomed by the real estate and insurance men of the city provided the tax was one of some size. He said that he thought the city could in this way easily add $1,000 a year to its revenue and that the persons upon whom the tax would be levied would not object at all as is the case usually when taxes are imposed.

When paving matters were being discussed Mr. Brennan said he hoped that work could be started again, looking toward the paving of Alley B and Diamond alley. Engineer Henderson and City Attorney Thompson will prepare for this improvement at once.

The council then adjourned.

AFTER LONG ABSENCE.

J. R. Smith and daughter, Miss Emma of Harrisonville, Mo., were in the city Monday doing some shopping and calling on friends of long ago. Mr. Smith formerly lived four miles south of Jacksonville but thirty-one years ago moved to Champaign county. Finding his health failing he disposed of his holdings there and went to Harrisonville, Mo., where he has since made his home. Although in his 86th year Mr. Smith is in good health and in the enjoyment of all his faculties. He notes many changes in the improved appearance of the city, but misses many friends whom he valued in years gone by. Mr. Smith and his daughter are visiting at the home of Mr. and Mrs. George Staples residing in the vicinity of Woodson.

W. C. T. U.

Through the kindness of the press I am privileged to talk with you in a way which would be impossible otherwise. It is a comfort to the heart of every "Christian temperance" woman to feel that the press and the kindly interest of the "brotherhood" are back of our efforts to bring "God and home and native land" into a holy trinity that will be sacred in every American heart.

I want to speak to you of the effort to organize a mothers' W. C. T. U. If there is any class of women who should belong to a "Christian temperance union," it is the young mothers of our nation.

Every "reform club," every "mothers' club" is but a child of the Woman's Christian Temperance union. So why not stay with the dear old "mother" and be both a reform and mothers' club, and you cannot be either without "Christian" and "temperance" being the foundation on which you build.

There was never such a need for "consecrated common sense" mothers as there is now. Womanhood stands on a new political threshold. It cannot afford to enter "blinded by ignorance and corrupted by vice" nor must she lose sight of the fact that both God and home comes before the nation. No matter how much we may shrink from the added burden, we must accept it, for it is already waiting for us.

Then there is the "public school problem" which the parents must meet and solve. God bless the public school. But God forbid that the door to knowledge should lead to hoodlumism, or a fashion parlor, or anything that will keep our boys and girls from growing up to be the Christian citizens that will hold the destiny of our nation in their hands through the twentieth century. When the motherhood of Jacksonville wake to their privileges and their responsibilities, there will be no "rough neck" day. There will be no cigarettes. If you will write to Mrs. Flora Swingle, 1317 Malsdell street, Rockford, Ill., you can get copies of the anti-cigarette law, also any literature on anti-narcotics. There will be little real Sabbath desecration. There will be a whole-some respect for the sacred things of life. There will be no soft drink places. There will be no back doors or secret about pool rooms. There will be no "Broadway Alley." There will not only be no white slave, but there would be no demand for white slaves. Children would be taught from early childhood the sacred mystery of life—the sacredness of parenthood, the "holy" bonds of marriage and that the body is indeed the temple of God.

Think you that there is any time or place for wrangling, or personal prestige, or criticism, when there is so much to be done for real work? Work that counts, work that will live through eternity. The woman who does the best to make life easier for others is the woman who is the most useful. It isn't the one who can preside the most gracefully nor the one best read in parliamentary law that we need, but the woman with the most consecrated common sense and who is willing to apply it.

I would be glad to see a W. C. T. U. in every ward in the city. God has been kind to you and given you a saloonless town, but He expects you to make it a rumless town. You know as well as I know that there are places where whiskey and beer are sold. If the men won't clean them up, it is time that the women get busy. Truly

"For a cap and bells our lives we pay"

For a few bright bubbles we give a whole soul's tasking,

"The only heaven that is given away, 'Tis only God may be had for the asking."

Very faithfully yours,
Hattie B. Daniel,
Co. Pres. W. C. T. U.

KNOWS HELEN KELLER.

Editor Journal:
I was interested in seeing the picture and notice of Miss Helen Keller in Sunday's Journal, as I have met her and corresponded with her. It is a mistake to say she has recently acquired the use of speech. She has talked orally for many years. At the time of the Columbian exposition at Chicago I heard her, at the congress of instructors of the blind, recite a poem of Longfellow's orally, and also answer numerous questions from the audience. She did the same at the St. Louis exposition and has addressed various public bodies on behalf of the deaf and the blind. Her singing is a recent accomplishment.

Pope Pius X. Codified the Laws of His Church; Earlier Popes Had Shrunk From Gigantic Task.

It is perhaps not generally known that Pope Pius X. prompted and personally supervised the codification of the canon law, the great body of jurisprudence under which the Roman Catholic church is governed. Earlier popes had made some attempts to simplify and systematize the great mass of legislation, but little progress had been made. Pope Pius courageously assumed the duty of codification. Today the great mass of ecclesiastical law has been reduced to a practical and understandable basis. Millions of prayers are being offered up from every quarter of the globe for the recovery of the pope that he may return to work for the good of the church and the people. Good news has just been received that his holiness is rallying from his illness and soon be on the road to recovery. The illustration shows Pope Pius wearing his robes of state. The scarf falling over his breast is the papal stole.

Miss Emma Weller, city matron, reported visiting one woman who was in jail on a charge of vagrancy. The cases of seven girls had been reported to Miss Weller during the month and she stated that she had made application of delinquency for one girl in the juvenile court.

The matter of paving and sidewalks was brought up and also the question of the utility franchises with the suggestion that the city attorney might get busy on these matters. Mayor Davis suggested that so far as the utility franchises are concerned that there would probably be no use in taking action for a short time at least pending the fate of the utilities commission bill in Illinois legislature. If this bill is passed and it has the backing of Governor Dunne utility matter to cities under 25,000 in population will be settled by the commission and this of course would apply to Jacksonville. In cities over 25,000 it would be optional referring matters to the commission.

The change made in the bill has removed opposition to it from the cities like Springfield and in the minds of many people vitiates whatever of merit the bill may have had, making it applicable to the smaller cities only.

E. F. Johnston was present and suggested to the council that an occupational tax would be welcomed by the real estate and insurance men of the city provided the tax was one of some size. He said that he thought the city could in this way easily add $1,000 a year to its revenue and that the persons upon whom the tax would be levied would not object at all as is the case usually when taxes are imposed.

When paving matters were being discussed Mr. Brennan said he hoped that work could be started again, looking toward the paving of Alley B and Diamond alley. Engineer Henderson and City Attorney Thompson will prepare for this improvement at once.

The council then adjourned.

QUICK RELIEF

FOR RHEUMATISM.
George W. Koon, Lawton, Mich., says: "Dr. Detchon's Relief for Rheumatism has given my wife wonderful benefit for rheumatism. She could not lift hand or foot, had to be lifted for two months. She began to use of the remedy and improved rapidly. On Monday she could not move and on Wednesday she got up, dressed herself and walked out for breakfast." Sold by L. P. Allcott, druggist.

AFTER LONG ABSENCE.

J. R. Smith and daughter, Miss Emma of Harrisonville, Mo., were in the city Monday doing some shopping and calling on friends of long ago. Mr. Smith formerly lived four miles south of Jacksonville but thirty-one years ago moved to Champaign county. Finding his health failing him he disposed of his holdings there and went to Harrisonville, Mo., where he has since made his home. Although in his 84th year Mr. Smith is in good health and the enjoyment of all his faculties. He notes many changes in the improved appearance of the city, but misses many friends whom he valued in years gone by. Mr. Smith and his daughter are visiting at the home of Mr. and Mrs. George Staples residing in the vicinity of Woodson.

Cured of Chronic Constipation.

"For twenty-one years I suffered with chronic constipation," says C. W. Robinson, of Cordova, S. C. "In May, 1908, it had assumed a more serious form, resulting in indigestion, piles and neurasthenia. Life seemed a burden to me. Two famous physicians and one specialist with all their drastic drugs failed to help me. A friend advised me to give Chamberlain's Tablets a trial, which I did, and am pleased to say two bottles of them cured me." For sale by all dealers.

C. H. Grant, 230 Waverly St., Peoria, Ill., says: "Backache and congested kidneys made me suffer intense pains. Was always tired and floating specks bothered me. Took Foley Kidney Pills and saw big improvement after third day. I kept on until entirely freed of all trouble and suffering. That's why I recommend Foley Kidney Pills. They cured me." ### W. C. T. U.

Through the kindness of the press I am privileged to talk with you in a way which would be impossible otherwise. It is a comfort to the heart of every "Christian temperance" women to feel that the press and the kindly interest of the "brotherhood" are back of our efforts to bring "God and home and native land" into a holy trinity that will be sacred in every American heart.

I want to speak to you of the effort to organize a mothers' W. C. T. U. If there is any class of women who should belong to a "Christian temperance union," it is the young mothers of our nation.

Every "reform club," every "mothers' club" is but a child of the Woman's Christian Temperance union. So why not stay with the dear old "mother" and be both a reform and mothers' club, and you cannot be either without "Christian" and "temperance" being the foundation on which you build.

There was never such a need for "consecrated common sense" mothers as there is now. Womanhood stands on a new political threshold. It cannot afford to enter "blinded" by ignorance and corrupted by vice, nor must she lose sight of the fact that both God and home comes before the nation. No matter how much we may shrink from the added burden, we must accept it, for it is already waiting for us.

Then there is the "public school problem" which the parents must meet and solve. God bless the public school. But God forbid that the door to knowledge should lead to hoodlumism, or a fashion parlor, or anything that will keep our boys and girls from growing up to be the Christian citizens that will hold the destiny of our nation in their hands through the twentieth century.

When the motherhood of Jacksonville awake to their privileges and their responsibilities, there will be no "rough neck" day. There will be no cigarette. If you will write to Mrs. Flora Swengle, 1317 Main street, Rockford, Ill., you can get copies of the anti-cigarette law, also any literature on anti-narcotics. There will be little real Sabbath desecration. There will be a wholesome respect for the sacred things of life. There will be no soft drink places. There will be no back doors or screens about pool rooms. There would be no "Broadway Alley." There would not only be no white slaves, but there would be no demand for white slaves. Children would be taught from early childhood the sacred mystery of life—the sacredness of parenthood, the "holy" bonds of marriage and that the body is indeed the temple of God.

Think you that there is any time or place for wrangling, or personal prestige, or criticism, when there is so much real need for real work? Work that will count, work that will live through eternity. The woman who does the most to make life easier for others is the woman who is the most useful. It isn't the one who can preside the most gracefully nor the one best read in parliamentary law that we need, but the woman with the most consecrated common sense and who is willing to apply it.

I would be glad to see a W. C. T. U. in every ward in the city. God has been kind to you and given you a saloonless town. But He expects you to make it a rumless town. You know as well as I know that there are places where whiskey and beer are sold. If the men won't clean them up, it is time that the women get busy. Truly

KNOWS HELEN KELLER.

Editor Journal:
I was interested in seeing the picture and notice of Miss Helen Keller in Sunday's Journal, as I have met her and corresponded with her. It is a mistake to say she was recently acquired the use of speech. She has talked orally for many years. At the time of the Columbian exposition at Chicago I heard her, at the congress of instructors of the blind, recite a poem of Longfellow's orally, and also answer numerous questions from the audience. She did the same at the St. Louis exposition and has addressed various public bodies on behalf of the deaf and the blind. Her singing is a recent accomplishment.

It is perhaps not generally known that Pope Pius X. prompted and personally supervised the codification of the canon law, the great body of jurisprudence under which the Roman Catholic church is governed. Earlier popes had made some attempts to simplify and systematize the great mass of legislation, but little progress had been made. Pope Pius courageously assumed the duty of codification. Today the great mass of ecclesiastical law has been reduced to a practical and understandable basis. Millions of prayers are being offered up from every quarter of the globe for the recovery of the pope that he may return to work for the good of the church and the people. Good news has just been received that his holiness is rallying from his illness and soon be on the road to recovery. The illustration shows Pope Pius wearing his robes of state. The scarf falling over his breast is the papal stole.

NOTICE.
Our work began April 1. By making your schedule the first time the assessor comes to see you, you can help to keep down the expense of the county. If you are called on the second time your schedule has cost twice as much as it ought to.
Many men have to call on the third time in order to get a schedule.

GOSSIP OF THE GAME

Hats off to the Browns. Guess old St. Louis is on the verge of nervous prostration by this time. Nothing like it since the days of Comiskey,
Robinson, Gleason, Latham, Onel,
Welsh, Foutz, Carruthers and Doc Bushong. What a team that old gang was. With but two pitchers they won pennant after pennant.
Hope the present bunch does half as well.

Rain and wet grounds have thoroughly demoralized the schedule in some of the towns particularly Chic and Washington. Its costing the magnates a huge sum. They will get it all back before long, however.

Looks like Bob Wallace would soon be back at short for the Browns. Walsh is all right but the infield needs that steady old head of the veteran who is far from being all in yet.

Bitter pill for Evers wasn't it? If his team don't brace up in a big hurry it will be the second division for them sure. Saier's absence which keeps Archer from behind the plate, is a serious blow to the Cubs playing strength. Of course Bresnahan is a star but Jimmy knows the pitchers better than the Big Chief and can get cleaner work out of them. With Vic back on the job the Cubs should give a better account of themselves.

Guthrie has made a good impression so far. He is paired with "Buck" Owens and has the base decisions to make. He is going to be one of the league's best before long.

A team that can fight the world's champions to a standstill as did Chance's Highlanders in yesterday's contest is bound to be heard from right along. Wait till they meet the small fry and watch their percentage of victories climb. A team with the peerless leader at its head just has to play ball all the time.
That's what the Yanks are doing right now and will continue to do.

Wood must have had glit edge-support in yesterday's game to hold the Yanks to only four hits. It isn't every pitcher that can get away with it as Smoky Joe did.

The teams will begin to hit their proper stride by the end of the week.

bases full and fanned three in a row.
If that ain't truly great pitching we would like to know what is.

Thorpe broke into the line-up yesterday, batting for Tesreau in the ninth inning of the game with the Dodgers. Brooklyn has a greatly improved ball club this year and should finish better than last.

Cooper has a chance to get the regular job away from Josh Devore in the Giant's left garden. Mac is reported to be very sweet on the youngster. He is fast, covers the whole outfield and can bat like a real big leaguer.

This young Allen must be some pitcher to hold the Giants to seven swats and win his game.

Larry Doyle is playing a great game. But the way that Jake Daubert is lining them out is what deserves special notice. There's one great player for you.

Saier's appearance as a batter for Bresnahan doubtless means that he will be back on the job in a few days. He is needed.

Red Corriden got his chance yesterday and it reads pretty good. He is Bridewell's superior as a batsman and if he can hold his own at the defensive end of the game should be a regular before the season is very far along.

Evers used seventeen players in his effort to win. An indication of his excitable nervous temperament.
That is what's going to prove costly

ANSWERS MR. CHUBBUCK'S FIGURES ON COST OF LIGHTINGCitizen Makes Careful Estimate to Show That City Can Furnish Own
Light at Less Cost Than Jacksonville Company.

Editor Journal: Please allow me space in your paper to analyze the figures presented in Mr. Chubbuck's communication recently made public. Mr. Chubbuck figures that it would cost the city $29,928.60 a year to operate the proposed light plant. He bases his figures on an estimate of the cost of installing the improvements at $78,650. But Mr. Chubbuck assumes for the sake of argument that the plant could be operated on Mr. Brennan's estimates, and he places the cost per year at $26,157.79. Mr. Chubbuck offers to furnish lights for $22,210 a year. Now I believe both these figures too high. I will show you the detailed figures to prove that the plant can be operated for $20,676 a year, besides saving $2,500 a year paid to Mr. Chubbuck's concern for light for the schools, city hall, library and parks, making the net cost to the city per year $18,176.

Value of the Present Plant.

Mr. Chubbuck estimates the value of the present light plant at $38,000, and each of the 187 are lights with the accessory wiring at $78 each, or a total of $14,586. This makes our present light system worth $52,000. Now in figuring our new costs, interest must be figured only on the $38,000, because we are going to throw away the old lamps and wiring to be replaced with new, included in Mr. Brennan's $50,000 estimate. Interest on $38,000 at 6 per cent is $2,280. Interest on the $50,000 bonds will be 4 1/2 per cent. This amounts to $2,250 a year. Depreciation at 6 per cent and insurance at 1 1/2 per cent. Mr. Chubbuck's figures, on the total old and new investment of $88,000, amounts to $4,840 a year. This makes the total maintenance cost of our new plant $9,370 a year.

The Cost of Operating.

Now as to operating expenses. The operating expenses of the present plant during 1912 was $8,745. Now the natural expectation, and the basis on which Mr. Chubbuck, unfamiliar with our circumstances, figures, is that this will be increased in proportion to the new lamps installed. As a matter of fact this will not result. For the present cost of current is out of normal proportions because of the type of the lamps used and the style of the boilers and grates in the power house. The lamps, very antiquated, result in loss of current while burning. Wire leakage is estimated by two experts at 50 per cent. Not only that, but the lamps are so out of date that they cannot be repaired except by much effort in replacing parts of one lamp with parts of another. Another big loss is in the matter of carbon. More than $500 of a total item of less than $900 is wasted on these alone each year. The elliptical carbons at present in use are not made except by one company, the National Carbon company, on special order by the Jacksonville plant. This company, because of the small product of the carbons, is obliged to charge $26 a thousand for carbons which burn at the most fourteen hours. Carbons for any new model lamps can be had for $11 a thousand from any lighting supply house. These burn 100 hours. In the present case the light-hour carbon cost is .186 cent, while for the new style it would be .011 cent—seventeen to one under the old and the new systems. Now Engineer Catherwood contends, and I am not obliged to go back of his contention, that the fuel cost for operating the new boilers will not be greater than at present, $2,561 a year. This will be true, he says, because the two new boilers to be installed are of the water tube type which heat much more rapidly and economically than the present tubular boilers. And since each of the new 300 horse power boilers will have a capacity equal to all three of the present boilers, this will affect two-thirds of the power producing capacity of the new plant. Mr. Catherwood also maintains that the new boilers and old ones when reset will have shaker grates instead of the present straight iron bar type, which allow fuel to drop through easily. The new shaker grate will allow the burning of slack with a result equal to or greater than that at present secured. That no more labor will be required on the part of the stoker at the boilers is brought about by the fact that the new coal sheds will hold three to four car loads of coal, while the present shed holds half a car, and the rest of the supply must be stored in an outside shed and hauled in by wheelbarrows by the fireman. That no more trimmers and repairmen will be required will result from the new style carbon which feeds automatically in the closed are lamps instead of the old elliptical carbons which have to be trimmed and fed and which shift out of line in the wind.

Where the Increase Will Lie.

But admitting that the cost of operation will be greater, let us see where it will be greater. An examination of Mr. Brennan's report of the cost of operation for the year 1912 shows that of the $8,745, $4,346 was paid for salaries, $2,561 for fuel, and the rest for miscellaneous repairs and renewals of parts. Now in our new estimate we cannot add anything more for salaries, because there will be no more salaries to pay. We cannot add for repairs and replacement, for we have allowed 6 per cent already for depreciation, which covers this item. We then can only add for fuel. Say, then, that we double this item—that is, we add it again to the total operating cost of $8,745 for 1912. We have a total cost of operation for the new plant of $11,306.

Therefore it seems fair to assume that $11,306 a year will cover the operating expense of the new plant. This added to the $9,370 in maintenance charge makes $20,676, the total annual cost of our new city lights. This runs within $1,634 of Mr. Chubbuck's offer for lights. But it must not be forgotten that the city with the new plant will be able to furnish its own lights for the city hall, the public library, the schools and the parks, for which at present it is paying to Mr. Chubbuck's concern over $2,500 a year. This $2,500 taken from the $20,676 for maintenance and operation leaves a net cost of $18,176 a year.

Now Mr. Chubbuck contemplates the exchange of railway and gas franchises for street lights. And for these Mr. Chubbuck offers a sum of $2,000 a year. This taken from his charge of $22,210 a year leaves $20,210 a year, which is still $2,034 higher than the cost by a new city plant.

Now what are the other considerations?

We Would Abandon $30,000.

According to Mr. Chubbuck's estimate of the value of the present plant, the city in agreeing to purchase light from Mr. Chubbuck's company would be abandoning a property worth $52,000. But deducting the worthless lamps and wiring, which must be replaced anyway, we still have the power plant valued at $38,000. Now all this is good and would be utilized by Mr. Brennan except the two old style direct current dynamos. A most liberal estimate for these would be $8,000; the highest offer that has been received is $400. Deducting $8,000 for these there still remains standing on the city's lot a building, engines and boilers worth $30,000, which becomes pure waste.

Mr. Brennan proposes to discard the old and worthless, keep the good, add to it substantial and modern equipment to give us a permanent light improvement and all at a cost of $2,034 less than Mr. Chubbuck will give us current.

How to Get Water.

Some little attention ought to be paid Mr. Haigrove's exceedingly verbose communication to the taxpayers and citizens of Jacksonville. It contains one point at least which is productive of suggestion for the future if not for the present. Mr. Haigrove refers to the possibility of a failure of the Jacksonville Water company to furnish water to the city through its defective mains and suggests that it may soon be necessary to bond the city for a new water system. Now as far as I can see there are only two sources of water for Jacksonville—the Bluffs wells and the Widenham-Daub wells. Maybe Mr. Haigrove has in mind the taking over of the Bluffs wells. But I am thinking from a knowledge of the Courier's previous attitude in water matters that it, at least in case of a failure of the river water company, will want to pump the Widenham-Daub wells. And if we buy current from Mr. Chubbuck we will be obliged to continue to pay him $66 a day for current for the dynamos. If we have our new light plant we can furnish our own current, not for nothing, don't misunderstand me, but for less than $66 a day. If Mr. Haigrove has any better plan to "improve, enlarge or repair the water system," let him spring it.

Wants Franchises Cheap.

I agree with Mr. Haigrove and the Courier that the railway and light company ought to be made to secure franchises, for good and valuable considerations. But I consider Mr. Chubbuck's offer of $2,000 a year anything but magnanimous, and if Mr. Haigrove's proposition, as he says he outlined it in an early franchise to furnish seventy-five are lights in return for franchises, were made effective, where would we get lights for the rest of the city?

The only other pertinent point of Mr. Haigrove's communication is his quotation of Mr. Henry Rodgers as saying that for $15,000 the present plant could be repaired to furnish adequate lights for the city. Mr. Rodgers' judgment ought to be respected as that of a man who has had experience with municipal light plants. And yet the figure does not agree with that of Mr. Chubbuck, who estimates the outside lighting system, which must be replaced, at $14,586. This does not include cost of new dynamos which must be had to replace the old direct current machines. It does not care for the overload which Mr. Haigrove and every one else admits exists and has impaired the present machines.

The Money Can't Go Astray.

There are those who are not willing to trust $50,000 in the hands of the present commissioners. If the commission form of government has any virtue at all, it is in its publicity of expenditures, making defalcation without detection almost impossible. Not only that, but in the present case the outlay for which the money is to be spent is clearly stated in the outset. Everybody admits that the new Corliss engines are worth what Mr. Brennan estimates they will cost, and any man with two eyes and common sense can see whether or not they are installed in the new plant. And so of all the rest of the machinery and lamps. There is absolutely no chance for misappropriation.

A Permanent Improvement.

Nobody questions the physical value of the new plant, engines, boilers and alternators which Mr. Brennan proposes—Mr. Chubbuck and every one else estimates them as highly as does the commissioner. They and all the rest of the proposed outlay will become a permanent improvement which can be operated to give us trebled lighting at a less cost than Mr. Chubbuck proposes, allowing for 6 per cent interest on the present plant, 4 1/2 per cent on the bonds, 6 per cent for depreciation, 1 1/2 per cent for insurance and a liberal estimate for operating expense.

We'll Be Saving the $2,500.

Now $50,000 looks big. But when we divide it into twenty lots, $2,500 each, it looks different. And it looks very, very much different when we know that more than this $2,500 a year can be saved in cutting off the bill which the city now pays to the light company.

The only additional cost to which we will be put will be for the interest on the bonds. This for the first year will be $2,250, for the last year $112.50, and for the total twenty years $23,325. This is a little more than a thousand dollars a year. When we consider that our light is to be doubled and that we really are to have a decently lighted town once, this seems to me to be a ridiculously low price for the commodity. I wish every taxpayer would sit down and figure out for himself what proportion of this thousand dollars he will have to pay, and see if he doesn't get his money's worth every time he goes out onto the street. As well as I can figure, it will cost the average man anywhere from 10 to 30 cents. It may perhaps cost some of our wealthiest citizens $5.

Long-Run Cost Is What Counts.

But I would not like for this latter argument to be considered inconsistent with my earlier one, that the whole operation of the plant will cost us $18,176 a year. The latter view is a very short sighted one, the former is the one that is business like. Eighteen thousand dollars is a large figure to spend for lights. But it must be remembered that on a basis of a valuation of our present plant at $38,000, not counting the old lamps and wiring, the cost of maintenance of the plant is $4,080. This added to the $8,745 in operating expense and the $2,500 we pay the street railway company for lights, makes a total of $15,325. This much we are already spending each year for our lights, miserable as they are. For less than $3 more—barely the cost of the added fuel—we can rebuild the plant with trebled capacity, can double our lights, can make ourselves independent of the Jacksonville Railway and Light company, can have a source of power in case of necessity to pump the Widenham-Daub wells, a plant that can be operated economically as to fuel and carbons, can be repaired by the replacing of parts, a plant which will thus become a permanent and substantial improvement in the city, and which will be as good at the end of twenty or forty years as it will be when first installed.

Cost Not Only Consideration.

How much the improvement will add to the beauty of our city, the value of its property and its desirability as a place to live I will not attempt to estimate. Property on a paved street is considered more valuable than on an unpaved street; property on a well lighted street ought to be and doubtless is so regarded. The civic reputation of the city will benefit by the new lights; it certainly will suffer by the continuation of the old, just as it has suffered for years by our miserable water.

"After Us the Deluge."

A continuation of the old? I do not know what will be the effect of the failure of this light bond issue—how we will get lights nor how we will settle our gas and railway franchise questions. I have scarcely the courage to contemplate these possibilities. The Courier and Mr. Haigrove think that the Jacksonville Railway and Light company could be advantageously dealt with on franchises in which light would be given in exchange for the use of the streets. Mr. Chubbuck in his letter states that he would be willing to allow the city $2,000 for the franchises. I would like for the Courier to find out for us before time to vote tomorrow what Mr. Chubbuck will give for his franchises in case the people defeat this issue. Until it does, I shall feel perfectly justified in my belief that Mr. Chubbuck will snap his fingers in our faces in regard to light concessions, just as he has done in regard to the street railway franchise. Mr. Chubbuck will then have the light field without competition. He will fix his light prices to the city at whatever he will and we will have to pay them or walk in darkness. He will fix prices for gas and light to our citizens at what he will and they will have to pay them or sit in darkness. And he will continue to use our streets for his railway, just as he has been doing for a dozen years, and we can tense ourselves for the money. Mr. Chubbuck becomes master of the situation and will force us to pay his prices or do without service. So far as the railway and gas ordinances are concerned, we are helpless. The state will not let us sell gas or light to private consumers even if we had them to sell, and we are not in a position to buy the street railway. But we are in a position to maintain and re-equip our light plant and furnish the city its light. And there remains but one day in which to defend that position, and but one means of defending it—vote for the bond issue Tuesday.

Enjoy Using Herpelde on Account of Its Effectiveness.

The ladies who have used Newbro's Herpelde speak of it in the highest terms for its quick effect in cleansing the scalp of dandruff and also for its effect as a general hair-dressing. It makes the scalp feel fresh and it allays that itching which dandruff will cause. Newbro's Herpelde effectively cures dandruff, as it destroys the germ that causes it. The same germ causes hair to fall out, and later baldness; in killing it, Herpelde stops falling hair and prevents baldness. It is also an ideal hair dressing for it lends an aristocratic charm to the hair that is quite distinctive. Sold by leading druggists. Send for sample to The Herpelde Co., Detroit, Mich.

Glimpses of Japanese Life Are Given After Investigations off the Beaten Paths—City Has Population of Two Millions—in a Native Restaurant.

Tokyo, Japan, March, 1913.
Dear Journal:
This is the capital and greatest city of Japan, a place of two million inhabitants and occupying a large territory. Our journey here from Nikko was rather full of incidents, only I much enjoyed my typewriter on the way, as a I managed to accomplish quite an amount of work and entertain a number of natives as well. One old woman especially eyed the machine for hours, sitting next to me, and when I showed her the way it worked, the shift for capitals and characters, she was delighted and mystified also.

When I decided to visit that great city I desire to see Japanese life, not from a hotel with a guide taking me about the stereotyped places, but to get among the people themselves, and I have succeeded far above my best expectations. A good lady at Yokohama told us of the very place we were seeking. Mr. S. Sakurai is a man with gentle manners, full Japanese ways, has a fair knowledge of home language and lives among the people in a part of the great city remote from business houses and all traces of the outside world. The lower floor of his abode is strictly Japanese with mats, sliding partitions and eels, while the upper story mingles the occidental with the oriental and there we have tiny, comfortable rooms, well furnished with modern belongings and very comfortable, and most scrupulously clean. Each morning a smiling maid brings us our breakfast and we have nothing more to be desired. Dinner and supper we get where we please and where it is most convenient and the plan works fine. The city has felt the influence of the outside world far less than Yokohama, though in the heart of the business district there are some modern dwellings and buildings. Only Japanese characters appear on the street cars and street corners and a stranger not understanding the language would have a hard time to find his way round.

The streets are narrow and crooked and the houses show great age. The stores are shabby. Generally they have the whole front exposed, though the weather is cold. The proprietor sits hugging a vessel containing a little charcoal and when a prospective customer appears he will continue to sit cross legged until there is a probable chance of a sale, when he will slowly rise and greet the individual. The floors are covered with matting as a rule, but the customer stands on the walk and makes his purchases. There are some exceptions to this where the floors are wood or stone and people walk right in and examine the goods. We visited one place they called a bazaar and it was indeed a curiosity. The place had a regular labyrinth of aisles about four feet wide and shelves on either side occupied with all manner of notions and articles imaginable. It seemed to me we walked a quarter of a mile, turning corners and passing up inclined planes till it looked as if we would never get out, though we did at last after making a few purchases. Another place we visited was a grand department store carrying only finer goods. At the door we were met by a levy of boys, who hastened to place on our barbaric feet slippers of felt so we would not injure the immaculate matting which covered the floor, but as most of the customers are natives with shoes easily kicked on and off the requirement to change is no hardship.

We visited a temple which was indeed a wonder. Standing at the end of a long, narrow street, it looked like a mass of brilliant colors, which indeed it is, but had hardly any of the odor of sanctity which pervaded the like structures at Nikko. It was a great building with half of it open at the front and sides, the space occupied by a throng, none of whom were worshipping except an occasional old man who knelt at the altar where the aged priest sat. Great boxes with slate edge on top were for contributions. The throng surged in and fro and here we encountered the first beggars in this land, a lot of children and a few old cripples pleading for alms. They undoubtedly concluded we were like most Americans, rich and prodigal. Doves flew in and out to cotes near by and there was nothing like worship in the great building.

Near by was another small building, which we entered and saw the case containing the Buddhist library. It was octagonal, about ten feet in diameter and as high. It was mounted on a platform that rested on a pointed rod in a socket so that it could easily be turned. The old priest in charge turned it for us, but failed to open the doors and let us see the contents. Near by was a long string of prayer beads from two to three inches in diameter. The guide said they were used by the devotees sometimes. Not far from the temple is the home of the sacred horse, which is a white animal, rather good looking, with a flowing forelock over his eyes. He is a sacred creature and all he has to do is to eat and sleep, carefully tended by his keeper.

There are many shrines in the vicinity, a small park with a pond near by and trees which show great age. A stone lantern many hundred years old is an object of much veneration, as are several other things. We saw a stone by the wayside with a large square niche on each side and were told that when a family loses a child the name is placed in one niche and information regarding the little one is put in the other. On the river was a boat loaded with stone, which the owner and wife were laboriously carrying to the bank and it was enough to give one a headache to see the loads those people carried.

We visited one street, about as long as from the center of the square to Church street which was wholly given up to various kinds of shows. It was indeed a marvel. The buildings were two and three stories high and painted with the most hideous and monstrous pictures imaginable. Impossible animals, men fighting battle scenes, suicide and murder, all done in barbaric colors and designs, while long poles extended upward from the buildings, were loaded with all manner of gorgeous streamers, making the whole place look like an exaggerated chromo. Sounds from within indicated that the music was about in keeping with the rest of the exhibition. The attractions (?) were of all sorts, vaudeville and the like, as we were informed, though we didn't stop to investigate any.

Noon arrived and dinner was in order so we decided to try a native restaurant. The readers of the Journal may perhaps recall the description of the first native meal in Egypt and will be prepared for something akin in this, but it was wholly different. People like us were evidently rather scarce in that region and we were followed by a number of youngsters eager to see what we were like. When we reached the restaurant the first thing was to sit down in the broad entry and remove our shoes. That performance attracted a gaping, curious crowd, who watched us closely. In Jap. restaurants of the better class screens are arranged so that parties may always eat in privacy, so we were ushered to an end of the building up stairs and to our place. Everything about the whole place was most scrupulously clean, free from odors of any kind and entirely wholesome and attractive. There was no furniture of any kind in the place except the table, which was about ten inches high, twenty wide and five feet long. Near each end was a round hole ten inches in diameter and in these were some kind of receptacles filled nearly full of sand and ashes.

Clean rice straw matting covered the floor and all was neat as wax. Then came the sitting down. The guide doubled up his legs and was in position in a moment and the other members of our party accomplished the feat with tolerable success, but my legs declined the ordeal and I had to double up the best I could and made a ludicrous figure. A solemn visaged man brought in some burning charcoal and placed it in the receptacles on the table and disappeared.

Soon a smiling waiter girl appeared with two little frying pans and a lot of fresh steak cut small and about as thick as stout pasteboard, the frying pans had in them a lot of soup stock and the meat was placed in them. She also brought a dish of vegetables, cabbage and some natives articles and with some of these she flavored the meat as it cooked, which didn't take long, as it was so thin. She brought along a large dish of rice already cooked, gave us each a bowl with rice, dipped up some of the soup from the frying pan and poured it over the rice and placed on top some bits of cooked meat and bade us eat.

Alas, these chop sticks, which are simply pieces of wood about the size of a lead pencil; could I ever use them? It looked so easy to see the guide and waiter manipulate them and why couldn't I? At any rate I would make a desperate attempt and at I went. The first time the chop sticks came out of the rice bowl they stuck together and the guide and waiter girl had great fun watching me. A gain I made a desperate trial, but that time the sticks were far apart and nothing between them. Next time I did think I was going to succeed, but at a critical moment the stocks refused to do their duty and my mouth was still empty.

I didn't exactly want to imitate Richard III and cry "My kingdom for a spoon," but one would have been wonderfully acceptable. Just then the guide and waiter were convulsed with laughter, but I was not going to be beaten by two contemptible little pieces of wood, so I tried again and that time landed three grains of rice in my mouth and the rest dropped back into the bowl, but I had made a start anyhow. I kept on and with varying success till the work became somewhat easier and finally I managed to convey the food to my mouth fairly successfully. Never in my life did I taste one delicious meal. The additions to the trying pan gave it a flavor wholly its own and superb. The rice was excellent as were the vegetables and we made a hearty meal, but were unable to devour all that was brought us by the waiter.

Our dessert was sliced oranges and a roasted bean, somewhat like salted almonds. The others snatched their lips over the delicious Japan tea and I tried bravely to like it, but it was a dismal failure and I am fully convinced that I may not ever like tea. We voted the Japanese restaurant a decided success and with good reason and we mean to eat there again more than once, though there are restaurants here conducted as at home, but not many of them.

Tokyo is not as old as many cities in Japan, though it is the largest and the capital of the country. It is all conspicuous and then because a nobleman had seen its military advantages and built himself a castle where now stands the fort and royal palace. When the reigning emperor or Shogun saw it he at once took possession and proceeded to make the place his capital, calling it Yedo. The shogun then ruled the east part of the island and the mikado, who dwelt in his palace at ayto. Finally the latter overcame the shogun and obtained possession of the whole country and came to Yedo and established his capital and changed the name later to Tokyo about 1868. It formerly was like the site of St. Petersburg, swampy and much of it under water and now there is some low land and several lagoons. The greater part of the place is composed of rather frail wooden houses, which are an easy prey to flames and the city has suffered from a number of disastrous fires. Only a few weeks ago one broke out, which destroyed three thousand houses and the burned district presents a sad appearance. The city has made great advances in the past forty years, many ancient customs having been abandoned and modern dress adopted by most officials, yet after all it is a Japanese city. The street cars and streets are all designated in the native language only and few persons, comparatively, use modern dress, especially among the women, of whom I have not seen one in modern clothes.

It has, however been supplied with electric lights, electric street cars, a fairly good water system and other late features and there is ever a mingling of the old and the new, though the latter is in a tremendous minority. It contains a number of temples and surrounding grounds, several parks, the Imperial university, the Sages' hall, which was once a temple of Confucius, or Chinese learning, but is now an educational museum, several fine museums, a zoological garden, the tombs of the shoguns and greatest of all the royal palace.

This is located on a commanding eminence, to which I have already referred, and occupies an imposing position. The place was well fortified in the old way long ago. It is surrounded by a deep moat, though there is not much water in it at present. While we are not permitted to enter the imperial precincts, as is the case in some other kingly governed lands, I have been able to secure a brief description of the palace, which shows it to be a very fine structure. Entering a long corridor, one comes to what seems to be an endless vista of crystal chambers, due to the fact that the sliding doors are of plate glass. The choicest woods have here been employed and the best work done, with the usual result from Japanese workmen. Each ceiling is fine and is divided into panels by lacquered ribs. Each panel contains some decoration especially excellent. The walls are generally covered with fine brocades, except those of the corridors, where an embossed paper has been used.

The great square posts hardly harmonize with the rest of the work but are there nevertheless. White wooden joined work with mellow tints generally prevails. Through this the building the Buddhist and imperial styles of decoration alternate. There are six studios, which are in chaste and even esthetic style, while the banquet hall, some sixty or eighty feet in size, is a mass of most gaudy painting and decorations not so large, with rich gold paint and silks.

The throne room is another superb apartment, though not so large as the banquet hall nor so brilliantly decorated. In one of the reception rooms is a wonderful piece of tapestry woven in one piece, 13 by 40 feet by an artist of Kyoto. The design of the piece is peculiar and ingenious. It represents an imperial procession in feudal times and a great many figures are woven into it with consummate skill. The colors are rich and harmonious and as a whole it forms one of the finest pieces of tapestry in existence. The offices of the government officials, the imperial printing office and other public structures are in this vicinity.

One day we devoted to the zoological garden and one of the national museums. The former contains a great variety of animals and birds and a small aquarium. The accommodations for the creatures are rather inferior as a rule, though they seem to be well cared for and contain a few specimens rare to us. One species of fowl we saw which I did not know existed and that was what looked like roosters with ordinary bodies and feathers and with tails fourteen and a half feet long. The great extensions I can hardly describe, but will say they looked like delicate tape as much as anything else and were indeed curiosities.

Another curiosity was a pair of pure white peafowls; the male had a long tail and sat on a perch high up enough to show it off to good advantage. Another male peafowl had plumage richer and more gaudy than any I have ever seen in our country. None of the birds had adequate quarters and I couldn't help pitying them. A pair of monkeys and a small family very playful and they afforded amusement to a good many. In front of almost all the animal and bird cages were boxes each containing small dishes of such articles as the captives liked and a card announced that the contents of each dish could be bought for half a sen or a quarter of a cent if the purchaser wanted to feed the creatures. A small box with a slit in it was for the purchase money which the honest visitor was supposed to pay. A pair of big bears especially loved with the walk afforded great fun with their droll and familiar ways.

After another dinner at a native restaurant and enjoyed as much as was the first one, we visited the national museum, which contained an immense collection of such articles as would be found in such a place and art whole world was represented. Some of the more striking exhibits were precious stones, of which there was a great variety. One article that especially attracted our attention was the hearse built expressly for the funeral of the late emperor. It was certainly a mingling of the barbaric and modern. It was a huge affair on two wheels and made to be drawn by six oxen. The body was probably ten feet long and five feet high and richly decorated. The wheels were immense and polished till they shone. The oxen were doubtless driven tandem, the first one in a huge pair of shafts that extended in front. The vehicle was carefully freed from all signs of dirt and looked immaculate.

In the building were some other vehicles of a similar nature, but none that could compare in elegance with this one we saw on the first floor.

Several hundred school children were enjoying a holiday in the zoo museum and we had great fun watching their merry countenances and bright ways as they trooped about, and we were about as much of a curiosity to them as the exhibits. Our guide told us the word for kindly greeting and we got it off a number of times to the great amusement of the little folks. There is surely no race suicide in Japan and it is no wonder that her statesmen are perplexed with the question of the disposition of the ever increasing population. The children were accompanied by their teacher and we did not at any time see any downright rudeness or ill behavior.

Next morning we spent at the exhibit of native and foreign products and it was one of the most pleasant and profitable times we have yet enjoyed. The exhibit is for the purpose of showing the things produced in this country with the retail prices which they should be retailed. Then in addition is a collection of the things imported and which are used in this country with the retail prices attached. We saw Borden's condensed milk, some American sardines and other articles from our country, but they were very few the main importations being from China and a few from other lands.

In the afternoon we went to a museum where was about everything you could imagine and some things you couldn't. There were stuffed animals and birds, all sorts of minerals and the great hearse made for the funeral of the emperor who died last year. We had another dinner at a native restaurant and it was the same as the day before.

THE WORLD'S LATEST FINANCIAL AND MARKET NEWS

DEMAND PREVENTS BREAK IN MARKET

ABSORB OFFERINGS AT CONCESSIONS AND SUBSTANTIAL BREAK IS FORESTALLED.

Heavy Tone Developed in Early Transactions Despite Efforts to Bid up Some of the Leaders and Prices Shaded Off as the Day Advanced.

(By Associated Press)

New York, April 14.—The demand for stocks today was great enough to absorb offerings at concessions and prevent a substantial break in the market, but there was no aggressive buying and trading lagged. When the market opened at noon—the opening having been delayed two hours account of the funeral of J. P.
Morgan—price changes were small and irregular. A heavy tone developed in the early transactions despite tentative efforts to bid up some of the leaders and quotations gradually shaded off as the day advanced.
Pressure was most effective against Reading, Lehigh Valley and Chesapeake & Ohio, all of which were forced down a point or more, and a few of the newer industrial stocks, which recently have been weak. The bulk of the standard stocks, however, were not greatly affected and sustained only fractional losses. The petroleum stocks were especially active. California common and preferred more to low figures. Rumley advanced a new low price, dropping a point to 31. A discrimination by banks against certain industrial stocks as collateral was said to be partly responsible for weakness in this quarter of the list. The cables reported that European markets were more cheerful and Americans advanced in London. There was more buying of Canadian Pacific for Germany, which made strong in contract with the general list.

MR. WEIR BACK FROM EASTERN TRIP

JACKSONVILLE CITIZEN MEETS PUBLIC MEN AT NATIONS CAPITAL

Sentiment in Washington Is That M. F. Dunlap Will Be Comptroller of Currency If He Wants the Post—Col. Bryan Sends Greetings to Friends Here—Ex-Senator Cullom Interested in Work on Lincoln Memorial.

Miller Weir returned yesterday from a ten days trip through the East, a larger part of his time being spent in New York and Washington. It was what Mr. Weir refers to as a "calling" trip during which he had brief visits with various bankers and men in public life.

Mr. Weir has been in Washington so frequently during the past 20 years that he naturally feels very much at home there and his acquaintance is wide among the leaders of all affiliations. In talking about his trip he said: "I was in Washington for several days the past week and had the pleasure of meeting a number of men prominent in the affairs of the nation and among them the men in whom Illinoisans now feel a special interest. I had a very pleasant chat with former Senator Cullom who has his office in the New Senatorial office building. As you know Mr. Cullom without any solicitation on his part was appointed local commissioner in Washington for the erection of the Lincoln Memorial for which the United States is to expend two million dollars. He undoubtedly is a man specially qualified for that important post. He is in position to see that the ideas of Congress are fully carried out and the intimate knowledge he has of Lincoln's life and work and the history of this country since the days of Lincoln especially qualify him for entering into his work with the deepest interest and intelligence."

Next to President Wilson, the biggest man down in Washington, and I think it is very true the country over, is Secretary of State W. J. Bryan. He was very cordial when I saw him at his office and he seemed to enjoy talking about Jacksonville of the past and present and inquired about his friends here. He took particular pains to say that he would like to send his personal and best regards to a person that he knew in Jacksonville. I had been living in Washington for several years at the time Bryan came there first as congressman and he laughingly recalled how we used to meet at night frequently at the Randall hotel across from the Willard hotel and talk over affairs. As I had been living in Washington and was not in condition to overlook economies myself I was able at that time to tell the new congressman some points upon economical living in the nation's capital, for he was not flush with money either. Mr. Bryan referred to those interviews that we had in those earlier days and suggested that while he was not in the plutocratic class that he didn't have to be as careful of expenditures as he was then.

I also had a lengthy interview with Senator Lawrence Y. Sherman at his office in the new senatorial building. Mr. Sherman is getting lined up in good shape for his work and there is no question but that he will take an active part in the work and deliberations of a high body of which he is now a member. We talked over political conditions in Illinois as well as elsewhere. Col. J. Hamilton Lewis is to be sworn into office to day and I found that there was a great deal of social and political interest attaching to his entrance into Washington circles. It can be truthfully said that there is a general feeling among the leaders in Washington that Illinois is to be well represented by senators Sherman and Lewis and that their selection was a wise and fortunate solution of the big tangle at Springfield.

I enjoyed particularly an interview with Congressman Rainey and during my stay in Washington I must say that I found more and more congressman Rainey is coming to be a strong factor in the affairs of Congress. He is a strong and growing man, intellectually and politically. He is a student of affairs sincere and earnest in his work and I believe that he is destined to do still better things for his country and his party. He has been there now long enough to understand conditions and affairs and this fact emphasizes how important it is that our congressmen be returned year after year instead of shifting the office about and having the district represented by a new man biennially.

It is the general impression that prevails among the bankers and politicians in Washington that M. F. Dunlap of this city can be comptroller of currency if he cares to take the office. It is believed that the office will come to Illinois and as Mr. Dunlap is fully qualified by experience that he can have the important post. His appointment would be satisfactory to the banking interests of the country and no doubt would be considered good from a political point of view. Next to the Secretary of the Treasurer the office of Comptroller of Currency is the most important in our financial system. The comptroller virtually has charge of all national banks, of bank examiners, bank receiverships and the appointment of attorneys to act in connection with such cases.

Just perhaps the event I most enjoyed was attending a ball game last Wednesday when the season opened with a game between Washington and New York. As of course you know President Wilson threw the first ball and then the game was on. It certainly was an all American gathering and I wondered as I saw the high ambassadors of other countries there if they were not greatly impressed with the democratic throng and if they did not contrast it mentally with scenes in their own countries where royalty goes to witness sports clad in all the robes and insignia of royalty. President Wilson arrived at the grounds in his automobile and walked through the crowd to his box. Although he was in a box and in a measure removed from the others of the immense crowd nevertheless anybody who wanted to walk up and greet him and shake him by the hand could do so. Practically all the business in Washington stopped for that game. Nearly all senators and congressmen were there as well as members of the cabinet. There were big representations of the army, of the navy and of course the great majority of the assemblage of twenty thousand people was made up of just common ordinary American citizens. And that is what it was just one big assemblage of Americans. Such a spectacle could not have been seen in any other country on the globe. No man could have been there who had any spark of patriotism about him without having his pulse beat a little quicker and his heart pump a little faster, just by remembering that he was an underling of Uncle Sam's."

HANDICAPPED

This is the Case With Many Jacksonville People.

Two many Jacksonville citizens are handicapped with bad backs. The unceasing pain causes constant misery, making work a burden and stooping or lifting an impossibility. The back aches at night, preventing refreshing rest and in the morning is stiff and lame. Plasters and liniments may give relief but cannot reach the cause if the kidneys are weak. To eliminate the pains and aches of kidney backache you must cure the kidneys.

Doan's Kidney Pills are for weak kidneys—thousands testify to their merit. Can you doubt Jacksonville evidence? Fred I. Gibson, 309 Woodland Place, Jacksonville, Ill., says: "I am always glad to endorse Doan's Kidney Pills just as highly as I did in 1909. At that time I suffered from kidney trouble and backache. The pain in my back was severe and when I would stoop over, it was hard for me to straighten. Seeing Doan's Kidney Pills advertised, I got a supply from Armstrong's Drug Store. They gave me permanent relief."

For sale at all dealers. Price 50 cents. Foster-Milburn Co., Buffalo, New York, sole agents for the United States.

Remember the name—Doan's—and take no other.

DAUGHTERS IN SPIRITED CONTEST

Washington, D. C., April 14.—Politics filled the air about Continental hall today at the opening of the twenty-third continental congress of the national society of the Daughters of the American Revolution. The biennial election of officers takes place at this meeting and as usual there is a spirited contest on for the office of president-general of the society. For the third time Mrs. William Cummings Story, a resident of New York and a leader of a powerful faction in the D. A. R. is out for the office of president-general. Her strongest opponent appears to be Mrs. John Miller Horton of Buffalo. Still another candidate for the honor, and one who is expected to have the solid backing of the southern delegates, is Mrs. Charles Bryan of Memphis, a daughter of Admiral Raphael Semmes. The election will not be held until the end of this week. A movement has been started among the delegates to elect Mrs. Matthew T. Scott retiring president general, honorary president general of the society.

No matter how long you suffered, or what other remedies have failed to cure, Foley Kidney Pills will surely help you. They are genuinely tonic, strengthening and curative, build up the kidneys and restore their regular action. John Felbert, Foster, Calif., says: "I suffered many years with kidney trouble and could never get relief until I tried Foley Kidney Pills which effected a complete cure."

TO VOTE OF COMMISSION PLAN.

Jersey City, N. J., April 14.—Special elections are to be held tomorrow in Jersey City, Hoboken and several other New Jersey cities to decide upon the adoption or rejection of the commission plan of government. If Jersey City adopts the plan it will be the largest municipality in the east to do so. Mayor Wittmann and other city officials are leading in the campaign for the change, and it is declared that opposition to it has generally lessened since the rejection of the plan two years ago, and the chances of success are believed to be fair. Hoboken, Bayonne and Union Hill, where the proposal also will be voted on, are regarded as doubtful.

There is no case on record of a cough, cold or lagrippe developing into bronchitis, pneumonia or consumption after Foley's Honey and Tar Compound has been taken. Refuse substitutes. City Drug Store, J. A. Obermeyer.

PACIFIC COAST IMMIGRATION MEET

San Francisco, Cal., Apr. 14.—With delegates present from Washington, Oregon, Idaho, California, Nevada and Arizona, the Pacific Coast Immigration Congress opened in this city today and will continue over tomorrow. Immigration experts, sociologists, educators and others are to address the congress on the humanitarian phases of the large immigration movement to the Pacific coast that is expected to follow the opening of the Panama canal.

"INTENSIVE POULTRY CULTURE."

Investments. "Intensive" is the key word to poultry success. No man gets the greatest returns for time, labor, material, space and money invested with out intensive methods. The poultryman succeeds as he avoids wastes.

1. If under the most favorable circumstances one man can care for five thousand chickens and develop each to its best, then the man who cares for a less number has to reckon with the loss of time.

2. If with labor saving devices and convenient arrangements a man matures as many fowls as any two men with no additional expense, the latter suffer a loss in labor.

3. If by an economical use of material a person saves a fourth on his investment, the man who uses more is handicapped by a loss for material.

4. If ten acres can be made to provide for as many chickens as are now being cared for upon twenty acres, other things being equal, there is a loss to be charged to space.

5. If given a certain capital you get by fair means in the course of a year returns equal to that of the man who has twice the amount your neighbor has to figure a loss by his investment of money.

Economic Factors. There are certain economic factors in the chicken business which save time, labor, material, space and money.

1. Certain localities which possess favorable soil, vegetation, climate, and marketing facilities provide advantages.

2. Some poultrymen by their adaptability to the science and arts of the business avoid the mistakes of others.

3. There are breeds and strains which are more virile, healthy, and easily cared for than some.

4. A knowledge of the physical nature of the fowl, its tendencies, needs, weaknesses, and strong points are all important.

5. Time, labor, material, space, and money saving methods, devices and houses accomplish more than all else with successful poultrymen.

Conclusion. The possibility of success with the greatest industries depends chiefly on their ability to conserve time, labor, material, space and money.

Note intensive methods in large department stores. To get the greatest returns Intensive Poultry Culture is absolutely necessary.

Heed the Cough That Hangs On. The seeds of consumption may be the cause and a cough that hangs on weakens the system. Foley's Honey and Tar Compound cures the cough, heals the inflamed membranes and strengthens the lungs. E. D. Rountrree, Stillmore, Ga., says: "Lagrippe left me a deep seated, hacking, painful cough which Foley's Honey and Tar completely cured." City Drug Store, J. A. Obermeyer.

WILL FARM IN MISSOURI

Mrs. Charles Franz was in the city Monday arranging for the shipment of household goods to the farm residence she and her husband recently secured a few miles from Edina, Mo. Their farm contains 160 acres and is a short distance from three towns of various sizes. Mr. Franz with a foreman and his wife, Mr. and Mrs. Emil Gardner left for Edina Saturday taking along several teams of horses and farming implements. Mrs. Franz left Monday evening for Springfield and to day will go to her new home. She says she is going to become a real farmer and will raise chickens, make butter and cultivate flowers and vegetables and was quite happy of her prospects. The good wishes of her many friends will follow her.

City Drug Store, J. A. Obermeyer.

Y., April 14.—In compliance with the recent order of Secretary of War Garrison and in conformity with an act of the recent congress, the general court martial which expelled four West Point cadets from the service more than a year ago for alleged intoxication, convened at the academy here today to reconsider the cases. Captain Thomas W. Darrah, 29th Infantry, is president of the court, and Lieutenant David McKell, C. A. C., is judge advocate. After full consideration of each case on its merits the court will report to the war department its judgment as to whether the original sentences should be allowed to stand or whether they should be modified.

Eats Freely But Has No Dyspepsia

Takes a Mild Laxative With Good Pepsin and Insures Comfort and Pleasure.

Fortunate is the one who can eat "anything" without suffering the tortures of dyspepsia, but as few are so fortunate care should be taken in the matter of diet. Eating slowly, masticating the food thoroughly and taking a short walk after the heavy meal of the day will do much towards assisting digestion. Any grown-up person ought to know the peculiar foods that do not agree, and these should be avoided.

When these common-sense aids fail, the next thing to do is to take a mild digestive tonic with laxative properties, and there is none better than Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin. It contains the greatest of all aids to digestion, good pepsin. It has other ingredients that act mildly on the bowels, which together form a combination for the relief of dyspepsia or indigestion that is unsurpassed.

Its action is to tone and strengthen the stomach and bowel muscles so that they can again do their work naturally without outside aid, and when that happy moment comes all medicine can be dispensed with. It is the best remedy obtainable for any disorder of the stomach, liver and bowels, for dyspepsia, constipation, biliousness, headaches, drowsiness after eating, gas on the stomach, etc. Thousands of users will testify to this, among them Mrs. Oliver Young, Merrill, Wis. She says: "After many years suffering from indigestion I have obtained what I believe to be permanent relief by using Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin. I feel 10 years younger, my work seems easy, my breath is no longer bad and I eat what I want without distress."

MRS. OLIVER YOUNG

Syrup Pepsin is sure in its results, and a vast improvement over chewing or swallowing tablets and mints, or taking cathartics, salts, etc., all of which are harsh and nauseous and at best do but temporary good. You can obtain Syrup Pepsin at any drug store for fifty cents or one dollar a bottle. Results are always guaranteed or money will be refunded.

If no member of your family has ever used Syrup Pepsin and you would like to make a personal trial of it before buying it in the regular way of a druggist, send your address—a postal will do—to Dr. W. B. Caldwell, 417 Washington St., Monticello, Ill., and a free sample bottle will be mailed you.

NOTICE.

TWENTY DOZEN FINE LINGERIE WAISTS REDUCED—ON SALE TODAY AND WEDNESDAY AT HERMAN'S.

TO DISCUSS CHURCH ADDITION. Committee of State Street Church Decided to Call Meeting For April 30th.

Monday afternoon a meeting of the committee appointed at the annual meeting of the State Street Presbyterian church, was held in the office of Dr. A. L. Adams, member of the committee. As there is such a strong sentiment in favor of building the addition the members of the committee decided to call a meeting of the members of the church and congregation for Wednesday April 30. Letters will be sent out to them urging them to attend.

It will be remembered that at the annual meeting plans for building an addition to the north end of the church edifice were advanced. The present quarters for the Sunday school are crowded and the new addition, which would probably be twenty-five feet, would not only provide for individual class rooms for the Sunday school but would also enlarge the social quarters of the church.

Arnold and son, Mr. and Mrs. E. W. Admire, Mrs. Prue Barnes and Mrs. Lou Sponsler, all of Roodhouse.

D. O. K. K. BUFFET LUNCH. Lunch will be served at ceremonial hall tonight from 6 until the end. Work begins at 7:30.

DEATHBLOW TO SPEED-TRAPS. Indiana's attorney general has rendered a decision that serves to put out of business the speed-mill maintained by many thrifty village communities in that state. In effect, the decision declares that local city, village and town governments cannot adopt ordinances regulating the speed of motorcycles and automobiles when such ordinances are in contravention of the general law of the state relating to such vehicles. The effect of the decision will be to put the kibosh on the enterprise of certain communities which have been in the habit of adopting annoying and ridiculous speed ordinances, setting speed-traps whole being designed to fatten the local treasury and the pockets of constables and justices of the peace.

TWO BOARD OF EDUCATION MEMBERS TO BE CHOSEN

Election Will be Held in First and Second Wards—Republicans Have Named John E. Hall and E. E. Bayington.

A board of education election is to be held today in the first and second wards and the indications are that there will be a large vote cast. Both men and women have the privilege of expressing their wishes at the polls. The Republicans of the first ward have named John E. Hall as a candidate and he is a young man who stands well in the community. In the second ward Republicans have nominated E. E. Bayington, who has had four years of training as a board member. As before suggested it is not likely that party lines will be strictly drawn today and both of these nominees will receive many votes from men and women not of their political faith. Although citizens as a rule pay little attention to the work of the board of education the board handles matters of vast and vital importance. Voters of the first and second wards should not fail to cast their ballots today.

PASTOR EMPHASIZES NEED OF GOOD LIGHTS

In Sermon Sunday Night Rev. Mr. Spoons Speaks Strongly in Favor of Good Lights as Moral Aid.

At the evening service at Northminster church Sunday, Rev. Walter E. Spoons, the pastor, took occasion to speak strongly in favor of good lights for the city as a moral aid. There was a large attendance at the service and to use a remark of one of the auditors the sermon was splendid "from a civic standpoint as well as from a religious standpoint."

Mr. Spoons took for his text, "Ye Are the Light of the World," and stated that the first idea as a citizen a man should have civic pride, that every citizen should have pride in the schools, in the streets and keep the laws clean. He said that the city should have good lights and that every man should shoulder his part of the responsibility and give the commissioners a chance to do something, and then if they did not do anything, to throw them out. He spoke of the advantage of lights in the moral uplift of the city, that the immoral portions of cities were always those that were either totally in darkness or poorly lighted. Taking up the standpoint of increased taxation he said that a person would pay more for a cab for one trip to the station than the total increase in taxes would amount to per year.
